PINOT GRIGIO

Friuli, Italy

Indicazione Geographica Tipica

The white grapes of this naturalised French variety are harvested by hand in the vineyards on the eastern Friuli hills. The dry wine is bright straw yellow coloured with coppery hues and has a complex aroma which varies from floral notes to rose and acacia blossom, reaching the fruity scents of apricot and tropical fruit, with hints of walnuts and spices. Smooth and persistent on the palate, tasty with evident perception of tropical fruit.

Delle Venezie is an incredibly popular and recognizable IGT (Indicazione Geografica Tipica) due to its large production and exportation of refreshing, crisp white wines produced from the Pinot Grigio grape.

Situated in northeastern Italy, the "Venezie" is representative of the "Tre Venezie" (or Three Venices), a reference to the three modern regions of Veneto, Friuli-Venezia-Giulia, and Trentino-Aldo-Adige that once were part of the Venetian Empire.

It can be enjoyed immediately and, if well stored, retains its aroma for years. The alcohol content ranges from 12.5 to 13% by volume and its total acidity is between 5 and 6 per thousand.

It is best served between 10 and 12°C.
